Why MidWest Missionair?

It takes over 18 to 20 hours of road time to drive from eastern Kansas to Moss Point, MS. Round trip expenses average about $110 per volunteer when you add up fuel, motels and meals on the road.

If you go by airlines you must drive to a large airport go through security and boarding procedures. Then you land at a big airport, wait for your bag and drive an average of 1.5 hours to the job. Adding this up it takes the volunteer 8 to 12 hours to get from home to the job site. You will pay $350 if you can plan at least one month ahead of time but expect to pay around $500 or more if you want to go within the next 2 to 3 weeks.

MidWest Missionair flies from a small airport within 30 minutes of the volunteer's home directly to a small airport within 30 minutes of the job. Total time in route averages 4.5 hours. We ask those who are able, to donate $250 to cover fuel and maintain a fund to reduce this cost for those unable to come up with the full amount. Slightly more costly than driving but for a fixed time away from home our volunteers are able to spend at least 20 more hours on the job than those who drive. And compared to airlines we are both cheaper and faster.

The Faith Promise
 The Faith Promise is something a little different than a pledge. In making a faith promise you pray asking God how much He would provide through you for the need at hand. The promise is simply to pass on what God provides. It may be funds that you already have or you may make a faith promise trusting God to provide additional funds to meet the need. The covenant is between you and God alone. MidWest Missionair keeps records solely to provide you with a receipt for tax purposes. Should God not provide you with sufficient funds no statements or reminders will be
